

SALES · YOUR SENIOR SALES MANAGER

The Selling Plan

What will actually move units, and the scripts to do it

My verdict as your sales manager

You asked me to email more international schools. I did widen the provider net (five Erasmus+ providers drafted now), but I want to be honest with you: cold emails to individual schools abroad are the slowest, lowest-yield thing we can do, and most serious international buyers hide behind web forms and proposal portals, not public inboxes. So we run a small amount of that, and we put our real weight behind three motions that actually sell:

1. Provider partnerships (Erasmus+ aggregators + Delightex). They already have the teachers and the budget. One yes here is worth a hundred cold school emails.
2. Speaking / workshops at conferences and school-association PD. You stand in front of a room of buyers and sell the whole room at once. This is the fastest way to bookings and credibility.
3. Direct-to-decision-maker on LinkedIn. Heads of PD, edtech leads, Erasmus coordinators. Warm, personal, cheap, and it fits your touring life.

Underneath all three: the funded Dutch pipeline (already warm, budget already sits with the schools) is where the first euros come fastest. Do not neglect it while we chase the world.

You told me you'll travel anywhere. Good, that is a real asset. Let's sell it: "an international trainer who will come to you" is a strong line.

This quarter's priorities (ranked)

1. Close one provider partnership (Delightex / Europass / Primera / Euneos / Spatia already contacted). Follow up in 5 working days.
 2. Book one live study day from the warm Dutch/Agora/SWV pipeline.
 3. Get one speaking slot (a conference CFP or an association PD day).
 4. Publish the Gumroad store (we do this together in 2 days) and start the free lead magnet collecting emails.
 5. Send 10 LinkedIn DMs/week to decision-makers, using the scripts below.
- If after 3-4 weeks the provider replies are thin, we pivot harder into speaking and LinkedIn, because those put you in front of buyers directly. I'll tell you when to switch and we'll switch.

Script 1 · Provider contact-form pitch (paste into their forms)

For iDevelop, Teachersrise, Erasmus Learning Academy, and any provider that only has a form. Keep it short; forms reward brevity.

> Subject: Ready-made gamification course + trainer availability

> Hi, I'm Kevin Storm, a teacher and international teacher-trainer. I've built a > complete, proven two-day course, Gamification & Immersive Learning (AI + game > design with Delightex + inclusion), with outcomes mapped to Erasmus+. I'd like to > add it to your catalogue or join you as a trainer, and I'll travel anywhere.

> Course and cv: kevinstorm.eu. Could we set up a short call?

Script 2 · Conference / CFP pitch (call for proposals)

For edtech and teaching conferences (BETT, ISTE, national teacher congresses, regional edtech events, Delightex/CoSpaces community events). Most run an open "call for speakers/proposals". Submit this.

Session title: Build a Playable Lesson in 90 Minutes (that works for every learner)

Abstract (paste):

> Gamification usually stops at points and badges. In this hands-on session you'll > build one real, playable lesson for your own classroom, using AI to design it fast,

> Delightex to make it immersive, and a simple inclusion method so no learner is left > out. You leave with something you can teach on Monday, not a theory of engagement.

> Led by Kevin Storm, a teacher, teacher-trainer and touring musician who has taught > everything from stop-motion with multiple-disability learners to game design in > mainstream classrooms.

Speaker bio (short):

> Kevin Storm is a Dutch teacher, curriculum developer and international > teacher-trainer with a home in special education, and a touring musician. He has > delivered gamification training for international teachers through Erasmus+ and > builds courses that leave something behind: kevinstorm.eu.

Where to submit: search "[conference name] call for proposals 2026". Prioritise

BETT (London), ISTE (US), regional edtech conferences near your tour routes, and any Delightex/CoSpaces educator event.

Script 3 · International-school PD proposal

For international-school PD bodies and heads of school (ISS, Principals' Training

Center, regional associations like COBIS/FOBISIA/AISH, and individual international schools). Submit via their "propose a workshop" page or email the head of PD.

> Subject: A hands-on gamification & immersive-learning workshop for your teachers

> Dear [name / PD team],

> I'm Kevin Storm, an international teacher-trainer. I offer a hands-on > professional-development workshop, half-day to two days, where your teachers build > one real, playable, inclusive lesson using AI, game design (Delightex, AR/VR) and a > simple inclusion method. It's practical, not theoretical, and I tailor it to your > curriculum and your learners, including special-needs and mixed-ability groups.

> I travel worldwide. Could we find 20 minutes to see if it fits your PD calendar?

> More: kevinstorm.eu.

Script 4 · LinkedIn direct messages (send 10/week)

To a Head of PD / school leader:

> Hi [name], I train teachers in gamification and immersive learning (AI + game > design + inclusion), and I saw [school] leans into [innovative thing]. I run a > hands-on workshop where your team builds one real, playable lesson they can teach > the next week. Worth a quick chat? Happy to travel to you. kevinstorm.eu

To an Erasmus+ coordinator:

> Hi [name], I deliver Erasmus+ gamification & immersive-learning courses for > teachers (AI, game design with Delightex, inclusion), outcomes mapped for KA1. If > you're planning mobilities, I'd love to be on your radar. kevinstorm.eu

To a Delightex / CoSpaces-using teacher or ambassador:

> Hi [name], fellow Delightex fan here. I've built a full teacher course around it

> (game design + AR/VR in the classroom) and train internationally. Would love to > compare notes, and if your school ever wants a hands-on session, I travel. kevinstorm.eu

Script 5 · Delightex Ambassador / Training Partner application

They have an application form (delightex.com/edu/partnerships). Paste these answers:

> Why you: I'm a teacher and international teacher-trainer who has built a > complete teacher course around Delightex (Game Design with Delightex: 3D worlds, > CoBlocks, AR/VR, with a classroom project and rubric). I deliver it live and as a > download, and I train teachers internationally, including special education.

> What you'd do as an ambassador/partner: run hands-on PD around Delightex for > schools and Erasmus+ groups, create classroom-ready materials, and help teachers

- > get started. Reach: Netherlands base, Erasmus+ across Europe, and I travel
 - > worldwide. kevinstorm.eu

The weekly cadence (this is the job)

- Mon: follow up every open provider/school thread that's 5+ days quiet.
- Tue: submit 1 conference CFP or 1 association PD proposal.
- Wed: 10 LinkedIn DMs (mix of the three scripts).
- Thu: 1 warm Dutch study-day pitch from the existing pipeline.
- Fri: post one short "onderwijs vanuit de tourbus" piece; log replies.

Ten touches a week, every week, is what builds a pipeline. Consistency beats cleverness here.

Track it (simple pipeline)

Keep one line per lead: name, channel, date contacted, status (contacted / replied / call booked / proposal sent / won / lost), next action, next date. I've started this in international-leads.csv; add the LinkedIn and conference rows as you go.

What I'll do next when you say go

- Draft any specific conference CFP once you pick the event.
- Write the LinkedIn posts and the DM list for named targets.
- Prep the Gumroad launch post and a school-facing one-pager.
- Keep verifying provider/association emails and drafting as addresses surface.

KEY POINT

The one thing to remember: we sell by getting you in front of rooms and decision-makers, not by emailing strangers one at a time. Partnerships, stages, and DMs. The downloads compound underneath.
